Dear Friend,

Welcome to the 1982 Beacon, the official yearbook of Suffolk University. The theme of this edition is BOSTON, a city which serves as Suffolk's campus.

I sincerely hope that the pictures of people, places and events on the following pages will spark memories of your time at Suffolk. The years will blend our memories of Suffolk with Beacon Hill and Boston. There exists an inescapable relationship between the university and the city as Dr. Vera Lee realizes in our Alma Mater:

"Here's to days of learning on the Hill
In the heart of Boston town;
Here's to friends we made and treasure still;
And to Suffolk her renown.
Alma Mater now we sing to thee;
Be with us in days to be.
Honestas Et Diligentia,
Suffolk University, Suffolk University!"

Dr. Lee's words are written for Suffolk graduates - us, the class of 1982. It is to and for "us" that the 1982 BEACON was created and is now so deservedly dedicated. I salute you and bid you good luck in the future.

Yours in 1982 and always,

Doreen M Matta

For everything its season and
for every activity under heaven its time
A time to be born and a time to die;
A time to plant and a time to uproot;
A time to kill and a time to heal;
A time to pull down and a time to build up;
A time to weep and a time to laugh;
A time to scatter stones and a time to gather them;
A time to embrace and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to seek and a time to lose;
A time to keep and a time to throw away;
A time to tear and a time to mend;
A time for silence and a time for speech;
A time to love and a time to hate;
A time for war and a time for peace.

A SENIOR'S THOUGHTS ABOUT

I got the letter from the registrar's office last week telling me to pick up my graduation gown in the bookstore after May 3rd. And I got the form from the public relations office to be filled out and returned so that my local newspaper can be informed of the event. And the Accounting office sent me a notice too, —so I must be graduatiung!

BUT I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE SUFFOLK! I didn't even want to write this article—reflections of a senior. In fact, I stayed up all Sunday night trying to think of an excuse to tell Feature Editor Suzanne Diaz—but I couldn't think of a good one. My girlfriend couldn't either.

My mother is planning the party for after the ceremony. My father doesn't know if he can sit through the two hour ceremony. And my grandmother can't wait for the ceremony.

I can. I'M NOT SURE THAT I WANT TO LEAVE SUFFOLK!

I've got 122 credits—finally, been involved in school activities, worked at the university, and met hundreds of people. That's why I don't want to go. Everything is done and there are too many memories.

Like . . . sitting on the State House stairs in the spring . . . J & R's . . . hanging out in the cafe . . . hanging out in the cafe with Pixie . . . cramming eight chapters of His-

Suffolk parties . . . the insanity . . . when Ridgeway Lane was the center of student traffic . . . when Fulham was president . . . getting accustomed to climbing eleven flights of stairs in Ashburton because of crowded elevators . . . the social circles of the old library and the solitude of the new one . . . rats in the old cafe, no rats, rats at Rileys, and the return of the rats in the new cafe . . . final exams.

But come to think of it I'll never have to take final exams again. And I'll never have to fill out another registration form again—only to have to later add/drop. And I won't be handing over any more checks to the accounting office. No more homework.

Okay. I'll go. I'll go willingly. But I'm going to put one of those Suffolk University stickers on the back of the window of the family car. And I'll be waiting for my yearbook to come in the mail in September. And I'm going to go to my class reunion when it comes time.

I'LL MISS SUFFOLK!

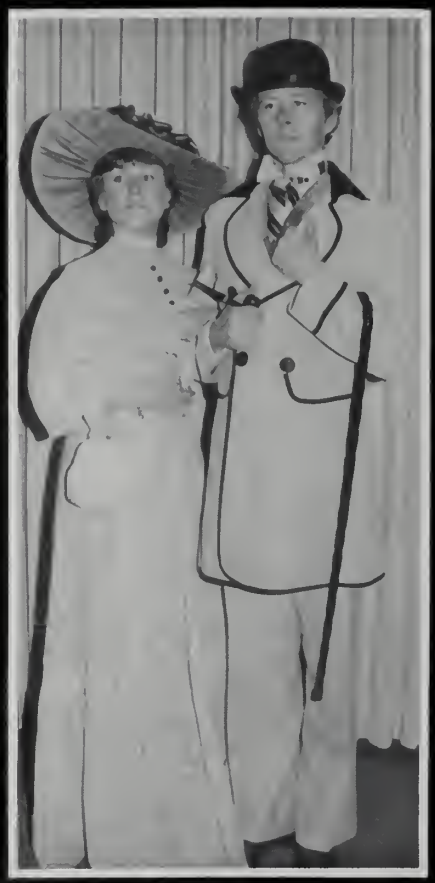
PRESENTATION

CELEBRATION

Suffolk -

Suffolk
University



To the graduating seniors:

I want to congratulate the members of the senior class in their academic work at Suffolk University. I hope that your experiences at Suffolk have provided you with:
— an education unexcelled in quality
— a coherent set of values based upon the thoughtful examination of issues
— the skills and information useful to assume a rewarding and satisfying professional position
— the ability to seek out new information and knowledge and to continue learning on your own after graduation
— many good friends and good times.

The location of your education, at Suffolk University, in downtown Boston, helped contribute to your achievement of these ends. Boston is a city of great beauty and cultural opportunity. It is also a city of many contradictions. Suffolk University is an integral and important part of this great city. Students come together on our campus from all parts of the city and its suburbs, each enriching the others' education by their own background and perspective. Suffolk University students use the city of Boston as a laboratory for learning, an extension of our Beacon Hill campus, including libraries, museums, sports events, parks, theaters, and jobs. Suffolk University, with its many ties to the city, serves as a model of an independent urban university. The educational experiences each of you received were enriched by our location in downtown Boston, by our affiliation with the Fenway Library Consortium and other local groups which help augment our instructional resources. Were this university located in a more remote or isolated location, it would be virtually impossible to provide students with the cultural and intellectual amenities and activities we take for granted in metropolitan Boston.

I hope you have utilized, and will continue to utilize these cultural resources fully and that in future years you will help provide for their support.

Suffolk University alumni play an important part in the economic, social and political life of this city, in even greater proportion than the size of our student body might indicate. The Boston area is home for virtually all of our undergraduate students, unlike the students of some of our sister institutions who will leave this city after graduation. As you take your place in the city as an alumnus of Suffolk University, you will find other alumni in leadership positions in almost every field. You will take pride, as I do, in what this institution has returned to the city in the way of educated citizens and leaders, just as the city has contributed so much to us.

With best wishes for satisfaction, happiness and success in achieving your career aspirations and your personal goals.

Sincerely,

Daniel H. Perlman
